

Traditional Building's 2025 Palladio Award Winners Announced

Announcing the winners for the prestigious awards program in traditional design

Washington, DC (April 10, 2025) – TRADITIONAL BUILDING is pleased to announce the winners of the 2025 Palladio Awards, a program that celebrates outstanding achievement in traditional design. An esteemed jury of design practitioners and architecture critics have chosen the Palladio Award winners from over 200 entrants.

For more than 20 years, the Palladio Awards have recognized both individual designers and design teams whose work enhances the beauty and humane qualities of the built environment. Categories include both restoration and renovation and new traditional design. Peter H. Miller, Hon AIA, publisher of TRADITIONAL BUILDING says, "The excellence in traditional and classical design around the country is extraordinary, and the preservation and restoration work superb."

The winners will be featured in TRADITIONAL BUILDING'S July Palladio Awards issue. TRADITIONAL BUILDING is a national publication which serves architects, designers, builders, interior designers, craftspeople and building artisans who design and build classical buildings.

The awards dinner will be held during the Traditional Building Conference on June 10, 2025, at the Williamsburg Lodge in Colonial Williamsburg. Tickets to the event are on sale on the Traditional Building website.

About Traditional Building

Founded in 1988 by Clem Labine, Traditional Building is a bi-monthly magazine and website which covers traditional design in residential, commercial, and institutional architecture, serving as the professional's resource, featuring projects, profiles, products, opinions and more. TRADITIONAL BUILDING serves architects, contractors, facility managers, developers, artisans and interior designers. Articles highlight historic preservation, adaptive use and new traditional design for commercial, institutional and government buildings – as well as civic spaces and landscapes.
